Health and Safety Content Writer

Position Overview:

We are seeking a talented Health and Safety Content Writer to join our team in Eastern Suburbs of Perth. The ideal candidate will have a strong background in occupational health and safety, with proven experience in writing, editing, and developing technical content for non-specialists.

Key Responsibilities:

Review, update, and develop work health and safety website content.

Coordinate projects and contribute to the development, delivery, and review of safety and health educational resources.

Identify and manage risks associated with communication activities, ensuring legislative compliance, technical accuracy, and editorial standards.

Contribute to the development and implementation of stakeholder engagement strategies and activities.

Corporate Responsibilities:

Adhere to corporate policies and procedures, acting with integrity and demonstrating ethical behaviours aligned with the Department Code of Conduct.

Ensure personal safety and health at work, and that of others, by complying with all applicable work health and safety laws and regulations.

Contribute to achieving corporate objectives by maintaining professional and timely interactions with stakeholders.

Perform other duties as directed.

Role Specific Requirements:

Demonstrated experience in writing, editing, and proofreading technical content for non-specialists.

Ability to work with limited direction to meet tight deadlines.

Strong collaborative skills, with the ability to work effectively in a team environment.

Bachelor's degree in Occupational Health and Safety, Science, Engineering, Science Communications, or a comparable qualification is highly desirable.

Experience in mining or developing mining-related content is preferred for the mining content writer role.

Please note, only local Perth based candidates will be considered!
