About the Detmold Group:

The Detmold Group is a privately owned, global leader in the manufacturing and sale of specialized paper and board packaging products. Due to the Group's strong emphasis on innovation and delivering solutions to our diverse customer base, the Group has formed the LaunchPad Adelaide Team. This team is the centre for research and development, concept creation, rapid prototyping and works with our customers to provide fast, integrated product development services.

About the Opportunity:

As a result of an internal promotion, we are now seeking a Project Lead to drive project outcomes within the project management function of LaunchPad. Working as part of a growing team, these roles are responsible for building strong relationships with key stakeholders across the organisation, while working with the LaunchPad Design and Development team to deliver the required project outcomes.

More specifically, you will:

Plan and lead all strategic and priority product development projects

Drive the activities of the New Product Development (NPD) project from concept to release with a strong sense of urgency, utilising company NPD process (stage-gate)

Collaborate with sales, engineering, marketing, operations, technical, supply chain, finance, and all other stakeholders to identify and prioritize critical project milestones and deliverables

Deliver against key milestones, customer requirements, and industry and legislative compliance

Identify any potential risks or gaps in active projects and delivering critical problem-solving actions

Prepare project status reports, facilitate technical and non-technical meetings / design / specification and testing reviews; keeping management and other stakeholders informed of project status and other related project information

About You

As the successful candidate you will be capable of working with a degree of autonomy , dealing with multiple competing priorities.

You will be tenacious and able to persist if challenges threaten project activities.

You will be driven to maintain outcomes that deliver benefits for us and our customers.

You will be curious and seek to always be learning about new ways to solve problems, and you want to part of an amazing team who drive change for the better.

Additionally, as the successful applicant, you will have:

A tertiary qualification in Project Management or similar or sound experience in a Project Lead or Product Development role

Technical aptitude and a practical problem solving ability

High attention to detail and the ability to effectively plan project timeframes to meet deadlines

Excellent communication skills and ability to build strong business partnerships

What's In It for You?

Recognised Employer of Choice by the Australian Business Awards (ABA)

A flexible working environment – we acknowledge the mutual benefit of flexible working arrangements

Market competitive remuneration reviewed regularly

A commitment to your ongoing professional development through training and career-growth opportunities

A Company that is committed to corporate social responsibility – through supporting local communities and charities, and our commitment to sustainable and ethical sourcing

A holistic and comprehensive health and wellbeing program so our people feel supported to be at their best

Other benefits include: An active social club, Free Flu Vaccinations, Free onsite Parking and Regular Celebrations of Success
